For Doom 3 you should probably use a computer that has a Multi-core processor and is running Windows 7 or Windows 7 64 Bit (KERNEL 8). Does anyone know if id Software plans on releasing an updated graphics driver for the WindowsÂ .In case you missed it, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) released a statement criticizing the United States for detaining immigrants for having a “crime” or “disease” in their own bodies and asserting that the U.S.’s immigrant detention system is also a form of torture. The ACLU’s statement essentially accuses the U.S. of an “unprecedented” attack on immigrants’ constitutional rights. “The right to bodily autonomy is guaranteed in the United States Constitution,” the ACLU’s statement reads. “We do not deny that the federal government has the constitutional authority to detain individuals with suspected links to terrorism after a hearing at which they have access to legal counsel. Nor do we deny that federal authorities have an obligation to detain certain individuals, including those who may pose a threat to the public if released, until the situation has been adjudicated.” The ACLU then lays out what it believes are key points of the anti-immigrant law known as the Muslim ban: “Yet, it is clear that there have been many significant departures from the Administration’s own stated policy and practice with respect to its immigration enforcement.” Key among the ACLU’s points is that the Muslim ban is a violation of immigrants’ Constitutional rights. And because the Muslim ban is a violation of Constitutional rights, according to the ACLU, it is possible that there are other violations of immigrants’ Constitutional rights in the U.S. detention system. DHS’s response The U.S. government has a different take on what’s going on: The Administration's policies are not unprecedented, and are entirely constitutional and lawful. For example, the United States has imprisoned enemy combatants at Guantanamo and Bagram. Congress authorized the detention of enemy combatants in the Authorization for the Use of Military Force (AUMF) passed in the days after the September 11 attacks, and the AUMF is still valid law today.
